

Liberal Democrats are winning for Britain

Liberal Democrat Shadow Chancellor Vince Cable is widely regarded as the man with the knowledge and experience to lift Britain out of its current economic plight. Cable is the man commentators turn to for the answers to today's problems. His knack of making the right analysis has earned him the respect of press and public alike.

Cameron and Osborne... invite ridicule

Sunday Times 11th January 2009

Lichfield and Burntwood Lib Dem Candidate Ian Jackson also understands the problems facing our economy.

Ian, a Chartered Accountant working for a major international company has been an outspoken critic of Conservatives financial mismanagement at local level. Ian says: "I am campaigning for Fair Taxes - that means rebalancing the tax system so that those on low or middle incomes pay less - paid for by closing tax loopholes exploited by the super rich. No-one earning less than £10,000 a year would be liable for tax. The link between pensions and earnings must be restored and there will be changes to Capital Gains Tax and loopholes in Corporation Tax will be closed. The wealthy should not regard paying tax as a voluntary option."

Ian has campaigned hard locally for the abolition of Council Tax and its replacement by a fairer, affordable alternative. His team has sent Ministers a 2,000 signature petition.

Ian Jackson says:

My campaign priorities are:

1. Fair Taxes
2. A Fair Start for Every Child
3. Fair Votes and Clean Politics
4. A Fair and Green Economy

That means help for those on lower and middle incomes. It means help for kids from the most disadvantaged backgrounds through extra funding via a 'pupil premium'. It means an end to our grotesquely unfair voting system and a clean up of the corrupt parliamentary expenses regime. And it means investment in green projects such as home insulation and public transport. We want affordable housing projects - built to high environmental standards to provide longer-term job security.

The Liberal Democrats have been right time after time on the issues that matter. Right on Iraq, right on the economy, right on the banking system, right on the Gurkha campaign. The other parties have got it consistently wrong.

In the midst of depression the outlook seems gloomy, but we have a message of optimism and hope. The road ahead is hard and rocky, but there are still things we can do to improve lives. I hope you'll join our campaign.

Labour in decline

Labour support in Lichfield Constituency is in dramatic decline. That means the only credible non-Tory alternative are the up-and-coming Liberal Democrats.

In 2009 Labour polled fewer votes locally and nationally than the Liberal Democrats, Weakened by defections and divisions, Labour are reconciled to the loss of thousands of votes. They are left with a dwindling rump of councillors.

Every single vote for the Liberal Democrats will strengthen the voice of commonsense and reason in the next Parliament. So your vote for Ian Jackson and the Liberal Democrats will not be wasted - and it will not be betrayed.
